A 2022 Memorandum to the Vatican, the Patriarch of Moscow, and the State of Israel

The author of the book "Ares Le Mandat" uses Catholic apologetics to confirm and rationalize the 2000 year time-gap of bible prophecy realization, before taking it upon himself to fulfill Revelation 13:13 as the false prophet who calls fire down from heaven. He does this after he calculates the number of the beast, 666, to stand for Mars 360. After explaining his belief that Mars has an influence on human behavior and that everyone should believe this to be the case(the author is trying to force his readers to believe this through numerous examples), the author then demonstrates his thesis by observing Mars in order to predict rocket fire escalation timeframe in Israel during the year 2020 and 2021, all in an attempt to persuade Israel to go after other gods. (once again willfully fulfilling the role of false prophet) The author achieved those predictions accurately in 2020 and 2021, while the COVID-19 pandemic was affecting the entire world. In having done this, the author thus fulfilled the role of the false prophet.

This all seems irrational. However, if one gives what the author is trying to convey some time and objectivity, it will become understandable as to the point the author was trying to make. The point was to essentially recognize God, recognize Christianity(author uses Catholicism), and then give up salvation in order to fulfill and affirm bible prophecy by using the observation of Mars to convince the world of Mars's existence. (prophecies of other religious are also integrated into the framework)

This is likely the start of a movement in Christianity in which Christians, even Catholic priests or protestant pastors, will forfeit or sacrifice their salvation in order to affirm the bible by willfully and actively fulfilling prophecy, should this demonstration of Mars's power be ignored. Many will thus, if they want to confirm the truth of the bible, have to take up and promote this Mars doctrine by calling down fire from heaven so that people will began to believe. The book "Ares Le Mandat" can be found online for free in digital form. The physical book, however, does have 2 sections not in the digital version, namely the 2021 gaza war prediction and an interlude setting the stage for the author's turn against God and towards Satan(Mars and Satan are bound together).

Here is a quick look into how the author publicly demonstrated the influence of Mars. He was able to find a pattern of rocket fire escalation in Israel, which coincided with the position of Mars in relation to the lunar node. While COVID was affecting the entire world in 2020 and 2021, he was calling down fire from heaven. This confirms that the Romans were not worshiping a false god, but a true god that still has influence to this very day.

Here are the demonstrations carried out successfully in 2020 and 2021, proving both the existence of Mars and his influence.

After the successful prediction and demonstration of Mars influence, the author goes on in accordance with Revelation to request that an image to Mars 360 be made.

The book "Ares Le Mandat" covers all of these events and applies every form of intellectual effort to confirm the Catholic Church, however, in order for any rapture or elevation to occur, the church has to confirm that Mars 360 is indeed the lawless one as prophesied by Paul in 2 Thessalonians 2:3–10. A formal proclamation by the Pope, both identifying the lawless one and subsequently anathematizing his Mars 360 system, would signify the return of Christ as destroying the god of war with the breath of His mouth. If the Catholic Pope chooses to remain quiet, the Patriarch of Moscow can consider making the proclamation and anathemization.

This is imperative as the world is on the brink of nuclear catastrophe. Not doing so would result in the church being left behind. In fact, despite being a Catholic centered perspective, the book insists that for any church to elevate, they have to confirm that Mars 360 is indeed the lawless one. The first to formally confirm this, regardless of denomination, essentially sparks the first resurrection.

The state of Israel must acknowledge the Mars doctrine which upholds that the planet Mars—as the dwelling place for the god of war, does have and has always had an influence on humanity. Ares Le Mandat demonstrates that this god of war had it out for Israelis back in AD 70 and even now since it is clear that the god of war has chosen militants in Gaza to be his agents of destruction towards the state of Israel. Here are all the dates of Mars within 30 degrees of the lunar node and Gaza rocket fire statistics going back to 2007. You will notice the pattern and see how the real time prediction from 2019 transpired accordingly and how this pattern applied in 2021 and will also do so in 2022 and beyond.

We must chase after this god of war whom was known as Mars. Covering and explaining how militants in Gaza are firing rockets in a predictable pattern could cause them to second guess themselves and also deter them from firing rockets into Israel. This keeps matters from escalating and keeps civilians in both territories safe from artillery bombardments. The propagation of this Mars doctrine is to serve as a "fitna"(temptation) that will confuse the enemies of Israel and also protect the state of Israel and help to bring war on this planet to an end.

The author also urges the adherents to Judaism to build some form of observatory honoring this Mars influence. What is requested is that Israel can start the process of getting in touch with this energy in a way that even though its obvious that it's going to be here, there is a way to figure out how to keep it from destroying the world. What is being proposed is that Israel follow the same model that Moses used in the book of Numbers when he led the Israelites out of Egypt. When they were wandering in the wilderness for 40 years, the Israelites had reached a point where they were being attacked by these fiery serpents. These fiery serpents would attack them, bite them, and kill them. This led to the Israelites requesting that Moses intercede on their behalf and ask God for a solution to this problem—something that would make it stop. Moses did just that, interceded and asked God for a solution. After receiving instruction on what to do, Moses then came back to the Israelites and told them to make an image…. to create an image of a bronze serpent. He then informed them that the next time all those fiery serpents would end up biting them, they could simply stare at the image—not worship it—but they could just stare at the image, and if they did that, they would be immediately healed. This solution ultimately worked.

What the author of Ares Le Mandat is proposing is pretty much the same model. That if Israel makes an image…. somehow form an image or observatory to this Mars force that seems to be affecting us here on earth, doing so will mitigate the problems associated with its influence. So when we look at not just Mars, but all the gods of war...Ares notably…. Ares was a god who was wounded and healed. He was wounded in battle and he was later healed and because of that, it becomes appropriate to start coming up with some sort of plan to make an image... build a comprehensive image that encompasses many gods of war like Ares Mars and Horus. Ares Le Mandat refers to this amalgamation as the Armaaruss. Constructing this could have a worldwide effect on reducing the impact that war has on the world. If not eliminate it entirely.
